STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1893.

WILLIAMSBURG, WHITLEY GOUNTY.

-The Congregational church has been beautifully papered.

-Prof. and Mrs. E. E. Wood are keeping house in the Morris property. -An infant child of Mr. and Mrs.

James Watts was buried last Saturday. -I am back in Williamsburg again after a very pleasant visit to Central Kentucky.

-Mr. R. S. Crawford is attending court in Pineville. Mr. J. M. Sharp is in London this week.

-Miss Carrie Myers returned from an extended visit to Mt. Vernon and Lancaster Saturday evening.

-The prohibitionists held a convention here Monday, at which H. T. Stephens was nominated for the Legislature.

-The republicans held a primary last Thursday and nominated Chas. Finley for the Legislature and Adam Siler for school superintendent. -Mr. B. F. Rose is building a residence on the hill near Mr. J. T. Freehis new house near the depot.

-Rev. J. M. Prestidge, of Winchester, has accepted a call to the Baptist church at this place. He will also be president of the Williamsburg Institute.

-The young people of the Christian church have organized a Y. P. C. E. with about 25 charter members. This is a good start considering there is a society at the Congregational church and a league at the M. E. church.

-1 find among the arrivals since I left a son at Mr. J. L. Whitehead's and one also at Mr. J. M. Ellison's. Both of these gentlemen are dressed up in their Sunday clothes and wearing broad smiles over the arrivals of their first

-A man by the name of Adler presented a check to the bank here last week and obtained the money on it. Mr. Siler says this is the first time he has ever been too good to a stranger. Mr. Adler was a sharper and the check a forgery.

Drug Co., gave our town a call Monday, elected, Ed Mayhan, Wesley Perkins, Misses Alice and Fannie O'Mara returned from Chicago Saturday night. Dr. W. F. and Bent Goodloe to represent the sociewhere he will be married to Miss Ida Feb. 22d. Preston, Mr. E. M. Huguely was in goods from a New York drummer.

-Miss Irene Carson died at the home of her uncle, O. B. Havis, Monday, Oct. 9, of consumption, aged 17 years. Miss Carson was born in Morristown, Tenn., and resided there until about one year ago, when she came to Williamsburg to live. She was a consistent and devoted member of the Presbyterian church and was loved by all who knew her. She was buried Tuesday evening in the Woodland cemetery.

-The people in this section do not feel the need of, and appreciate the separate coach bill as it is in other parts of the State, yet it is working like a charm. Now if we could only have a box car to put men in who get drunk and make beasts of themselves, I think the traveling public could get along comfortably. On last Friday evening as I was returning home, a man who claimed to be a gentleman and a man of influence, boarded the train at Livingston, drunk, and used such obscene language that a decent man could not listen to him without blushing with shame and yet he was permitted to ride in the ladies' car. No man should be valued higher than he deserves and when he makes a brute of himself he should be treated by other people as such. *

-Miss Ray E., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Whitsitt was married Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock to Mr. J. L. Ruse, of Dawson, Penn. The bridal party entered the parlor preceded by Miss Lou Whitsitt and Mr. Charles W. Rush, followed by Mr. Johnie and Miss Mamie Whitsitt, brother and sister of the bride. The ceremony was performed by Elder J. E. Tercy in a very eloquent and impressive manner, after which Mr. and Mrs. Ruse led the way to the dining room, where an elegant supper was served. The bride was dressed in white satin and ribbon trimmed with white duchess lace and wore a beautiful wreath of orange blossoms. The bridal coup'e left for their home at Dawson, with them the best wishes of the many her short stay in Williamsburg.

Seven Hundred thousand people upon one square mile of territory is a sight for gods and men and a fitting exhibition for "Chicago Day," but the average mortal finds reading about it pleasanter and more profitable than participating in it. It is even noted as a remarkable feature of the occasion that not more than 150 people had to be taken to the Emergency Hospital and but a half-dozen were killed outright. However, it was almost worth one's life to hear Mayor Carter Harrison blushingly confess before such The Times.

-Geo. Lee James has bought a beautiful little pony and is breaking her to drive. She is a free going little animal and very graceful.

GRAB ORCHARD.

-William Moreland bought of Grove C. Kennedy 12 butcher cattle at from 2 to 3 cents per pound and of same party 25 fat hogs that averaged 225 pounds at 5 cents.

-J. T. Chadwick is having his barn removed from the front to the back of his lot. We hear he is going to extend his veranda to the south side of his residence and enlarge and beautify his

-Some one in attempting to steal chickens of Mrs. Gormley left a new meal sack near the hen-house, which they can have by calling for it. She onlymeant for them to leave the chickens when she screamed at them.

A Big Time at Lexington.

LEXINGTON, Oct. 10.-The meeting of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F, and the trotting races here this week have drawn visitors by the thousands and things are exceedingly lively. In the big parade to-day Stanford Lodge No. 156, headed by the Uniformed Stanford Gold Band, made a magnificent display "with plumes and banners gay" and was extravagantly complimented, as was also the Danville Lodge, which is composed of most excellent and courteous gentlemen. About 2,000 Odd Fellows were in the parade, which consisted of a journey of fully three miles on foot and the band boys especially got exceedingly warm about the collar before it was through with, but Gus Jaubert's unexcelled burgoo and accompaniments that were served when Woodland Park was reached, together with the easy flow of oratory, assisted materially in making the day pass swiftly and pleasantly.

Lexington didn't get to be the Capitol, but she's a capital city all the same. Mr. J. D. McMurtray, who has been one of the managers of the fire department here for 20 years, kindly showed the Stanford fire department through his establishment to-day. One of the many fine horses that he uses has been in the service for 18 years and you bet this animal above all others is thoroughly conversant with his business.

Dr. Lee F. Huffman's Stanford friends were dropping in to see him all day and found that he is enjoying alucrative practice in his profession and has become exceedingly popular.

It seemed to be the general impression here to day that the 18-year-old tuba mipulator of the Stanford band, Samuel Tilden Cook, is the best in the State. He is just simply a musical prod-

The splendid race track was never in a better condition and the horses are going round the circle fast enough this week to make a fellow's head swim, especially if he occasionally visits the "basement" of the grand stand. Letcher Owsley went to Lexington this week to hear Col. Robert Ingersoll lecture. Misses Ella Watson and Eliza Smith are attending the World's Fair. Dr. J. B. Kinnaird and Dick Beazley have returned from Chicago. -A large and appreciative audience assembled at the court-house on Monday evening to listen to an address by Hon. Sam Embry, of Hopkinsville, on behalf of the Keeley Institute at Crab Orchard. He held the undivided attention of his hearers for an hour and a half and received at the close a well-merited round of applause. His illustrations were apt and conched in the choicest language. The entire address was admirable and delivered with all the fervor of one thoroughly impressed with the importance of his subject. The friends of temperance were delighted with the address and were outspoken in praise of the speaker. The Lancaster band furnished excellent music for the occasion.

Nashville, Tenn., March 6, 1893.-The Stockton Medicine Co., Nashville, Tenn., Gentlemen: It gives me exceeding pleasure to speak of your Antiseptic, as consider it something wonderful in the way of medicine. My old servant, Albert, who is 72 years old, was very sick with Pneumonia, complicated with Heart Trouble and Dropsy. I called in my family physician and gave him every attention, but the doctor finally told me there was no hope and the only thing that could be done was to make him comfortable until the end. At this point I decided to give him Stockton's Antiseptic, as it seemed to be performing almost miracles for others. It was iven in regular doses every three hours and the fever began to decrease from the first dose and a decided improvement was noticed the first day. In three days he was sitting up and in a week he was back at his work as usual, and is regaining in strength very fast. I conscientiously believe it saved the old man's life. Respectfully yours,

BILL NYE SAYS THEY WERE VERY NEAR TO EACH OTHER.

Though Differing Somewhat In Their Ideas and Habits, They Were Nevertheless Quite Inseparable-The Story of Their Life Touchingly Told.

[Copyright, 1890, by Edgar W. Nye.] MOUNT AIRY, N. C., Sept. 26.

This town is a post village of Surry county, this state, and has cotton factopurpose, wool carding machines, mineral springs, newspapers, etc., but its princi-pal hit was made as the home of the Si-er's society by a circumstance which they could not prevent, and which was about here their children were born, and here they died.

Recently I have had the pleasure of reading an instructive article on these gentlemen prepared by M. A. Dufour the hoe. They also enjoyed chopping for a French journal, and with the items of interest offered me by the old neighbors of Chang and Eng besides I venture to write a letter on these much talked of people from Siam.

M. Dufour goes on to state that "las d'exhiber leur 'trait-d'union' devant les curieux des deux mondes, ils avient acquis une jolie ferme, a Mount Airy dans just as in ordinary chopping. le comte de Surrey (Caroline du Nord) peti d'armees avant la guerre de secession, et passedaient quelques esclaves."

Caroline du Nord is good. I shall have that put on my cards hereafter. Translated, M. Dufour's happy expression implies that, "tired of displaying their natal hyphen to the gaping crowds of both worlds, they had purchased a pretty farm at Mount Airy, Surrey county, N. C., a few years before the war of sesession. They owned a few slaves."

On this last question there is a difference between authorities. M. Dufour. who was thoroughly familiar with his subject, states positively that they were not antagonistic regarding the great question of the right to maintain and extend slavery-in other words, that the war did not separate Chang and Eng.

Yet I was told by a man who claimed to know them well that Chang owned one slave, while Eng did not, and did not favor the unboly traffie. Chang believed that, slavery being a good thing, one could not have too much of it, also that states had the right to regulate it as they would the liquor traffic, while Eng believed that it was a national question and final-LOUISVILLE And CINCINNATI ly refused to help catch and return Chang's nigger for him.

> My informant said that this led to internecine strife between the two, and that when they were on their way home from the lodge, where Eng. not being a member, had reluctantly gone to see Chang take the thirty-second degree, they had an open rupture almost, after which Chang enlisted in the Confederate army and Eng in the northern army. OHIO Later, however, both deserted, noticing how awkward it would be in case one should suddenly decide to die for mother, home and country, while the other favored longevity.

This same man told me that when Nancy Bunker was born her father insisted that her Uncle Chang should run

Eng and Chang mean, in the Siamese tongue, with which I am perfectly fa-miliar, "right" and "left." They were born at Bangesen, Siam, April 15, 1811, almost simultaneously.

They had a Chinese father, and their mother was one-half Chinese, the other half being Siamese.

In putting on their dress suits they left out the lower stud of the shirt in order to give room for the strange coffee colored coupler which joined the two at the base of the sternum.

The sternum is the breast bone. These two twins were brought to the United States at the age of 18 and were on exhibition up to the time they settled down at Mount Airy. They appeared jointly.

Those who saw them say that Chang and Eng did much by their public appearances to elevate and refine those who saw them. Still Chang was intemperate, according to Dr. Jacobi, and many a time Eng, who was quiet and sober, had to go on in Chang's place as an understudy. Eng was a Baptist, and on the day he united with the church and was immersed Chang insisted on accompanying him in a beastly state of intoxication.

These were the best known twins in history, living to the age of 64, or nearly so. The Two Headed Nightingale is yet living at the age of 42, but is still single -that is, unmarried. I do not know how I would propose to the Two Headed Nightingale. I might be acceptable to one of her reasoning farnities, while the other might be more sensitive to horrible sights and refuse.

Chang had some literary ambition, while Eng did not. Chang's love for Some people are perhaps morbidly sensi-

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL THE SIAMESE TWINS. rum was a pretty good sign that he was pull Eng out of bed while sound asleep and jerk him around in the dark, jotting down memoranda of thoughts he had during the night. Chang had invented what he called the author's friend. It consisted of an illuminated wall at one end of the room made of a mixture which lighted it up so that he could preserve a thought which had made its appearance during the night. He also invented the Edinburgh joke gimlet and used it successfully while in Scotland.

They were more irritated against each ries, flour mills, shoe factories for man other after the war than before, for and beast, tobacco factories for the same | Chang lost his nigger and bitterly reproached Eng for being at the bottom of it. On top of all this, Eng tried to reconstruct Chang.

Chang married some time before the idea occurred to Eng, and though he entered fully into the spirit which prompted Chang to wed he often felt ill at ease and out of place sitting up late of nights during the courting and taking cold looking at the moon and pretending to

Therefore he soon turned his attention toward marriage, and accompanied by his brother one evening made a proposal to Chang's sister-in-law. She rejected him, claiming that, according to her notions, relatives ought not to be too thick. Nevertheless it was Chang's wife, who felt that she had bitten off more than she could masticate, who induced her sister at last, while under the influence of wine jelly, to accept Eng, and for some time the four occupied the same house, ate at the same table and drank from the same canteen. But jealousy arose, and as result each husband built a separate house. Chang would go over and visit Eng for a week, and then Eng would come over and spend a week with Chang

They were passionately fond of horseback riding and baseball, Chang playing in the Surry team and Eng in the Mount Airy Sockless nine. This was told me by the man who claimed that Chang was married quietly, while Eng took his wife on a tour of European travel.

As farmers they had some trouble in certain kinds of work, but M. Dufour says that they often hoed in the field, using the "outside" arms to take hold of wood, using the ax in the same manner. By a signal, consisting of a grunt, which seems to be necessary to the chopper anyway, the two struck simultaneously, the ax helve being grasped by the right hand of one and the left of the other, the hand nearest the ax being permitted to slip on the handle at the right moment,

The children and grandchildren of Chang and Eng are scattered pretty well over the country. The brothers married two Misses Yates, and Nancy Bunker, the eldest child, had some educational advantages. She traveled in Europe with her father and uncle and acted as their secretary.

M. Dufour claims that the two brothers did not unite with the Baptist church, but that the widows and children did. ally losing faith in the man who said the brothers were immersed while Chang had a Siamese jag on.

Dr. Jacobi states that "the connection epigastric regions between the navel, which was common to both, and the ensiform processes, which were bent out in a forward direction and met very inches in circumference and 24 in diamter. It contained a connection between same time justified his conduct by the two livers and was composed partially of liver tissue."

The band was very curious from an anatomical standpoint, as the skin at the median line was mutually sensitive, and inside there was a combination of the peritoneum, so that after death a hand introduced into the abdomen of Chang entered two pouches reaching into | was entertained at the house of a pa-Eng, and the reverse produced almost a similar result as to Chang.

One evening in the winter of 1875-6 Chang went to bed feeling indisposed, and Eng, who was of a sociable turn of mind, joined him. After conversing for finally getting somewhat acrimonious regarding their management, they at last table twinkle in his eye: compromised, agreeing that Chang should go under one management and Eng under another.

Then they dropped off to sleep. In the night a wild cry from Eng pierced the

AT THE GRAVE OF THE TWINS.

Eng was found almost delirious with the discovery that he was linked to the dead body of his brother. He lived for an hour only, the fright and horror of his situation precipitating his death.

No cases are recorded of successful separation in cases similar to this, though it has been several times attempted.

Considerable trouble was made by the two sons, who came home from the west and heard on their arrival that the doctors had secured the bodies and gone evay to get them photographed; also to see what made the "wheels go round." They gratified their morbid curiosity and then brought back the bodies, with thanks. The brothers were displeased about it, and so expressed themselves.

tive about having their parents dissected that way.

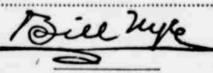

A friend of mine named Quill Patterson says that his old doctor has Quill's father's stomach in alcohol, and though Quill has offered him over and over again four times what the organ is worth from a mercantile standpoint, hoping to obtain it and bury it with the old gentleman, the doctor claims that Quill can't positively identify it, and so just because Mr. Patterson, before his father's death, did not fix in his memory the features of the old gentleman's stomach so that he could recognize it anywhere he is now denied it by a man who has no real claim on it. The Siamese twins were carefully examined by Drs. Pancoast and Agnew of Philadelphia, after which they were photographed, and no one to look at them could have believed that they had been so recently and thoroughly explored.

The sons replevined their fathers, but not in time to prevent the exploration. Two modest marble monuments mark the graves of these two strange men.

It was first suggested that one large stone should be erected, but this was given up. The motto at the top was to

What the Dog Knew. I happened one day to be in a Tennessee mountain town when an election was taking place, and there was one fellow who was doing more talking than anybody else and getting into repeated rows. He was followed everywhere by a shepherd dog, and late in the evening I found him on the edge of town in a most dilapidated condition, the result of a fight with the wrong man. The dog was trying to lead him home. "Well," I said, "what's the matter?"

"Fightin," was his brief response. "You look it," said I, quite fearlessly, for I felt safe under the circumstances. "That's a good dog you have. Do you want to sell him?"

"No, siree," he replied, brightening up little. "Here, Carlo," he said, and the dog faced about and sat up. Then he put him through a lot of difficult tricks, apparently forgetting all about his own battered condition. "Why," I exclaimed, "blamed if he doesn't know as much as you do.' The man looked at me aggressively. "More, mister," he said; "he knows enough to keep his mouth shut."-Detroit Free Press.

Knew It Was True.

Macready was playing in a country town, and upon a night when he proposed to perform "Macbeth" a small scene painter was cast to act The Bleeding Sergeant. The story is told of a well known New England clergyman that he once exchanged with a brother clergyman and rishioner who was even too hospitable. She insisted upon his eating a large piece Separation during life was therefore of mince pie for dinner, and the minister vielded against his better judgment.

The consequence was that he became violently ill and was unable to preach that afternoon. The doctor was summoned, and while he was ministering to some time about their prospects, and his agonized patient the latter looked up and said feebly, but with an inimi-

TWO DAYS AT A TAILOR MADE DRESSMAKER'S.

Dresses That Are Almost Classical In Their Form and Draping-Some Very Pretty Lounging Robes-A Hortense House Dress-The Serpentine Waists.

[Cepyright, 1874, by American Press Associa-

There are several houses in New York that make a specialty of tea gowns and lounging robes, and others where nothing but tailor made gowns are produced, unless possibly some habits and a few ceats such as require strict tailor finish. Last week I devoted two days to going to see what they were producing for the benefit of such ladies as like to be in style while making their own garments. In one place I found the prettiest lot of tea caps that fairies ever dreamed of. There was one of white crope lisse, with an accordion plaited foundation, which was again laid in box plaits, so that the edge stood up all around in a succession of fluted ruffles. On the top there was about a yard of baby blue Tom Thumb ribbon tied in loops around a bunch of the crepe lisse, and standing upright in the center of this were a couple of milkweed puffs. The whole thing was as light as thistle down and no larger than the palm of one's hand.

Crepe lisse and the very lightest of laces and most delicate of ribbons, feathers and flowers are the only things suitable for these delicate bits of finery, and it must be confessed that they are dainty and coquettish additions to a toilet There was one to go with a royal blue velvet and figured peau de soie gown. The gown was cut pompadour in the neck. The tea cap was of blue gauze worked on the edges with fine gold threads. Standing up in front were several blue cornflowers, with two gold wheat ears. Who can say that was not lovely? Another that "went with" an old rose surah Bulgarian and lace tea gown had a cap that consisted of fine rosettes of pink silk muslin cut in deep notches on the edges, so that the full resettes looked like so many lovely chrysanthemums.

There are others with faint hints of Italian, Turkish and Russian head wear about them scarcely strong enough to define, and yet they were there, and one or two bore a resemblance to a Queen of Scots coif, with pearl edges. They were all tasteful, dainty and becoming, and their advent is a matter for congratula-

The tea gowns are not less lovely, flowing and graceful than they have been heretofore, and some of them have a distinct character.

In one house where nothing is turned out but these creations there are numbers of tea gowns almost classical in their form and draping as well as trimming. I fell in love with one of heavy white armure silk, which has a long train, with the key pattern worked in gold around the bottom. There was over this a peplum of white cashmere, lined with maize colored Florentine, and this hung open instead of being closed. On all of the points were gold balls. There were loose sleeves which reached a full foot longer than the arm on the back. silken portion formed a waist gathered full around the bust and held in with a Greek belt of gold links and gold fringe to the pendent portion. The peplum came up to the neck in the back and fell loosely in front, showing the full waist.

Another elegant tea gown was of two shades of heliotrope, very dark and very light. The gown was cut snug princess in the back, with the fullness for the train laid in fan plaits between the seams at the waist line. The material was velvet and faille. The fronts were double-that is, there was a close princess front of faille and a loose one of velvet, lined with cream colored satin. The velvet fronts hung open naturally. Down the center of the front was a ja

Around the entire bottom the velvet was slashed and piped with silk, and under the slashes showed a ruffle of faille covered with lace. The sleeves were immense bishop, of corded silk the same shade as the faille, with velvet revers edged with a ruffle of lace of the same pattern, but not quite as wide as the jabot. I should have said that in the center of the back of the skirt there were two widths of faille. closely fan plaited at the top. This tea was superb. There were very many lovely gowns in the printed silks overwhelmned with lace and ribbons. One beautiful gown was of pale blue and cream striped silk cut somewhat in a Japanese fashion to lap across the bust. All the side seams were left open, and under them showed a full accordion plaited skirt of rose pink crepon. Around the waist and in the street it is as cheap for her to tying in the back in a large bow with short ends was a sash made of wide cheney ribbon, the colors pink on a pale habit of good manners has to be worn blue ground in wild rose pattern with delicate green leaves.

princess in the back and with demitrain laid in close plaits. The front of the waist was drawn up into a loose drapery and had a deep basque frill of lace. There was a wide lace collar extending down the waist, jabot fashion, to the waist line, where it encircled two long magenta satin tabs, one of which was fastened under and one over the lace basque ruffle. The sleeves were bishop, made very long and caught up in loops a little above the elbows and let fall to just below them. They were gathered at the wrist in a manner quite popular just now and fell over the hand and were lined with lace. Such a gown as this is naturally for private house wear and takes the place of the old robe de chambre.

I saw another novel and attractive home dress made in the style rendered historical by Queen Hortense, though it differs a trifle, after all, from the old one. This had the short waist of rich black velvet brocade and the skirt of dark blue taffeta. The upper sleeves were of ribbed velvet-black and blueand the rich ribbon garniture was of blue satin. Around the bottom of the skirt that reached only to the instep was a festoon trimming of the ribbon, with windmill bows between the festoons. The waist was cut off short at the back, and the skirt was sewn on it. A loop of ribbon passed around, and there was a small bow set exactly in the middle of the ribbon at the waist line.

Some of the tea jackets are very beautiful, and all are dainty and graceful. They are cut to reach nearly to the knees and are made of every conceivable material and covered with lace and ribbons. One of maize china silk had pink ribbons and white lace, and these were caught up into bunches and held by jewel pins. These are quite fashionable to use as a means of looping and fastening laces and ribbons on house toilets.

Some of the tea jackets have wide ruffles of chiffon gauze and crepe lisse so light that a breath moves them. Some white jackets have pink, maize blue or corinth red ruffles. There are some tea jackets of white foulard with blue, brown or black dots, and these, like the others, are loaded with lace and ribbon of pretty tints. These jackets worn over plain skirts give an appearance quite elaborate.

One very elegant tea jacket was of pale violet rep, with rich cream guipure with bunches of pale pink and green satin ribbons, not over half an inch wide, set in among the masses of lace. Several of them have the fronts cut out pompa-The upper part was looped up with a dour and have elbow sleeves of velvet flat gold button on each shoulder. The or heavy ribbed silk to contrast with the rest. One of the most effective was very simple. There was a foundation of milliner's net, and over this was drawn a surface of fine mull. Overlying that was a piece of black dotted veiling. Around the bottom was a band of fine black chantilly insertion, with a full ruffle of lace to match, as well as down the front and around the neck and sleeves. There was a winglike arrangement of black lace on the shoulder above the bishop sleeve, intermingled with nauve magenta velvet ribbon, and there was a full rosette of the same with perhaps 20 ends of the ribbon about 18 inches long. It was very handsome and quite different from any other,

The serpentine waist has gone out giving place to neat but fanciful basques, and these are as diverse as the tastes of the wearers. Short waists can be made into basques by the addition of a ruffle, a ripple, turret points, slashes or bias pieces sewn on. The skirts and the basques are all short and do not interfere with the general style of the waist trimming, which runs as much to ruffles and bretelles as ever.

Company Manners.

The "wife and mother" writers have for years been preaching to the effect that a woman ought to wear her best dress at home for the benefit of her household. It is doubtful if they have produced much result, because to the women of moderate circumstances, for whom such advice is intended, a new dress does not come often enough to warrant her in exposing it to the dangers of practical housekeeping. It is impossible to wear delicate clothing while cooking and serving a meal without running serious danger of soiling it, and damaged finery is infinitely worse than none. The sensible woman will cling to her neat, washable cambrics and prints so long as she has to assist in the kitchen.

"Company manners," however, never become spoiled by use, and if the above mentioned preachers would fit their arguments to a text revised in accordance with this fact the sermon might be more practical. Why should there be such a gown was naturally very costly, but it thing as company manners? Why should we not eat, speak and move as correctly when with the family alone as when outsiders are there? The sound of the voice alone is with many persons sufficient indication whether a stranger is present or not. It costs nothing to say "If you please," and "I beg your pardon," and if husband and wife, mother and son or father and daughter meet bow and him to raise his hat as it would be if they were mere acquaintances. Scared by a Bicycle.

A horse attached to a wagon driven by John Grafton took fright at a bicycle in Prospect park on Wednesday night and plunged, with its driver, into a small lake. The horse floundered in up to its shoulders and the wheels sank deep into the mud. A policeman jumped into the water, and seizing the horse by the reins threw a line to those on shore and with their help pulled the rig to land.—Brooklyn Times.

They claim that he has found a more lucrative business and for that reason has turned the post-office and fixtures over to that clever gentleman, but uncompromising republican, Mr. Frank Cordier. Of course the judge will still be postmaster in name, but it does look as if he could have found, without much trouble, a democrat who would have been glad to have had the opportunity of being made deputy postmaster and for it received the greater portion of the emoluments of the office as they claim Mr. Cordier does.

ROWLAND.

-Isaac Hamilton looks like he is at nome in his old business and seems to be selling a great many goods.

-As the time has come under the new constitution to elect a new board of town trustees and a police judge, we suppose Rowland will have an election.

-D. A. Twaddle is, likely, the only man in Kentucky who has an authentic autograph of Hon. John E. Kenna, U. S. Senator from West Virginia. He has it in a letter of recommendation written in 1874.

-Judge Shelton has moved the postoffice to the Cordier building, South Main and Judge Cordier has been employed as clerk. This is the third time it has been moved since the change in postmasters.

-The meeting closed Wednesday night and there were 47 additions to the church. It is having a good effect on the entire community and it is to be hoped that the words of truth, so ably presented by Eld. Ellis, will find a permanent abiding place in every heart.

-The Knights of Honor is one of the safest fraternal orders in existence. This is proven by its prompt payment of benefits, of which it has paid nearly $45,-000,000 in 20 years. D. R. Lanahan, who was killed a short time since, was a member of the lodge at this place and had only paid $2 40 on assessments. In W. L. Williams. 25 days after proof of his death his mother received a draft for $2,000.

-Phil Soden and his bright little son, Willie, have been attending the World's Fair and Mr. C. H. Brown will go tomorrow. Miss Addie Martin is visiting friends and relatives in Jellico. Miss Mamie DeBorde, of Crab Orchard, is visiting Mrs. James Carter. The number mentioned in our last to attend the I. O. O. F. celebration at Lexington on Tuesday last was increased by Miss Sallie Dudderar and Messrs. W. H. Dudderar, J. H. Carter and W. P. Raines. They report a good time generally and plenty to eat and drink.

-Having noticed much comment on Judge Saufley's instruction at Danville, regarding progressive euchre, we beg leave to say a few words. First, there is a specific statute against gaming where money or other property is won or lost, no difference who furnishes the property to be thus disposed of. There is no statute against receiving a prize for the best cake or the best horse and hence the cases are not analogous. Second, an examination of the law will show clearly that the winning or obtaining something or nothing, is the feature sought to be punished, no difference whether A. or B. furnishes the property. I will open on January 16th, 1893, a First-Class
Dairy, from which I can supply any quantity of Jersey milk to the people of Stanford and Rowland at the tollowing prices, delivered:

Whether A. or B. lurnishes the property.

MUSICAL NOTES.

Guiltmant plays on church organs in New York and Boston.

Nikita seems to have created a sensation in Chicago. But it was not her first appearance in this country by any means, as she sang here before she went abroad

Patti will find that the American people will readily forgive her for not adhearing to her former intention of making last season her farewell year. Patti's "farewells" are coming to be taken as mere pleasantries.

Alluding to Mr. Theodore Thomas' resignation as musical director of the World's Fair, the London Musical Times says,-"So this is the end! But it might have been, and was, anticipated. We in London know from experience that a DEALER IN CROCERIES, HARDWARE, sight-seeing crowd will not pay to hear artist c music."

The student should embrace every opportunity of hearing good music of all kinds, especially the performances of pianists of the first rank, whose programs include those pieces which the student may be practising. Much valuable assistance may be thus obtained as to the proper rendering of involved and difficult passages; and phrases which beforehand may have appeared comparatively obscure and meaningless will, under the touch of a great artist, shine forth full of beauty and significance.

Schumann studied the pianoforte under Friedrich Wieck, at that time the most eminent teacher of that instrument in North Germany. Schumann was progressing so rapidly that he gave promise of becoming a pianist of the highest rank, when, in endeavoring to strengthen the third finger of his right hand by some mechanical method, the principle of which never became known, he crippled his hand hopelessly and was obliged to give up all idea of ever becoming a successful performer. He therefore devoted himself to composition with great dili-

Patti will be accompanied on her tour to America by Mrs. Fabbri, Mesers. Galassi, Lely and Novara. Her husband. Mr. Nicolini, who will also be a member of the troupe, will occasionally sing, and the party will likewise include a secretary, a maid, a valet, and a cook, together, of course, with the indispensable pet dog. Forty concerts in all will be given, and at each concert an act of some opera will be recited in costume. Patti will sail on October 28, and will open in New York WALLACE E. VARNON, on November 9. She will be in Chicago late in January, and will go as far West as California, the season closing in April in New York.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

-The marriage of Mrs. Kate Trimble de Roode, of Covington, and Mr. Ed-Ward J. Woolsey, of New York, which took place at the home of the bride's mother at Covington, was one of the most brilliant and notable social events of the season.

-Marriage license was issued Tuesday for the marriage of Mr. R. W. Wallin to Miss Mary E. Moore, both of the East Is a candidate for Jatler, subject to the action of End, near the Rockcastle line. # TO All Tax-Payers.

The 1523 Taxes are now past due and will be collected in the Sheriff's office at the court-house and by special appointments as prescribed by the new revenue law. Deputy Sheriff O. P. Newland will be in Crab Orchard every Saturday. I land will be in Crab Orchard every Saturday. I or my deputy will be in my office at all times and at Histonville, Waymesburg and other points as often as advertised by Sheriff's official notices. The new form of Sheriff's book-keeping has rendered it impossible for us to canvass for taxes this year, as we have heretofore 2 che; so all taxes will be collected strictly in conformance to the new revenue law. Every tax-payer whose tax remains unpaid after November 1st will find his property or lands advertised without further notice. The financial crisis which new exists makes it absointely necessary that I collect every dollar of the 1891 taxes, as I can not expect that help from the Banks which has heretofore caused me to be lenient with the tax payers. Please profit by this and settle at once. Kespectfully,

J. N. MENEFEE, S. L. C.
